

U. S. AVIATORS SEE NO SIGNS OF HOSTILITIES IN MEXICO

After Flying for 200 Miles They Report All Quiet; Aviators Here Are Experienced Army Birdmen; Reports of Villistas and Federals Clashing Are Conflicting; Rumor Says Villa Men Badly Scattered.

American aviators returning Friday from observation flights along the border report that no revolutionary activities have been discovered recently along the valley. The aviators traversed the border for a distance of approximately 200 miles. They reported that small bands of men, probably Villistas, were seen in the hills south of the river, but that no concentration of forces for a renewal of revolutionary operations against Juarez was discovered.

Experienced Flyers. American flyers are keeping a close lookout along the border for Villista concentrations. Aviators included in this aero detachment sent to the border district for patrol duty are from Ellington and Kelly fields and some of the personnel are widely known army observers and aviators.

Reports of Battle. Rumors in Juarez late Saturday indicate that Villa Ahumada is to be the scene of another battle between federal and Villa forces. A sensational rumor from the interior which reached Juarez late Thursday claimed that Gen. Beltrán Quiroga's cavalry force had been surrounded in the vicinity of Villa Ahumada and that a general engagement was imminent. Another report, evidently from Villa sources, stated that Quiroga's cavalry column had been cut off from Samalayuta. Federal military headquarters report that Quiroga has a force of approximately 300 men. According to Villistas, Quiroga has only 500 men.

Reports Are Conflicting. All reports, however, are from Carranzista sources, and are for the most part conflicting. It appears from the most responsible reports that federal troops advancing south encountered a band of Villistas in the vicinity of Villa Ahumada and in the hills south of the river. The elements composing Gen. Quiroga's forces have not been announced. It is reported that the troops were cavalrymen. Reports from the scene of operations indicate that the Villistas were badly scattered and killed as a result of the American pursuit following the battle of Juarez. The Carranzista forces were reported to have been in the vicinity of Villa Ahumada and that a general engagement was imminent.

Have Not Left Yet. The 20th federal troops in Sonora who were to march across the mountains to Casas Grandes to protect the Mormon settlement against Villa attacks have never left Sonora, according to reports in Juarez. It is thought that perhaps the order moving the troops across the border into the state of Chihuahua have been countermanded by federal military authorities.

Train Service Restored. Train service, including both passenger and freight, have been resumed over the Mexican Northwestern from Juarez south to Pearson, Chih., according to information given out at the Juarez offices of the Mexican Northwestern Friday morning. The first train for carrying passengers or freight to travel over the Mexican Northwestern since the recent Villa operations left Juarez for Pearson late Thursday afternoon. Another train followed later in the evening, and still another train Friday morning.

Telegraphic communications with Chihuahua City also have been restored. Mexican official dispatches are being transmitted from military headquarters in Chihuahua City to Carranzista leaders in Juarez.

AMERICANS AND MEXICANS SWAP SHOTS NEAR NOGALES

Nogales, Ariz., June 27.—No American soldiers were injured when members of an American cavalry patrol were fired on late yesterday by a party of about 200 Mexican soldiers, four miles west of here. The Americans returned the fire. Being without orders to cross the border line, the cavalrymen sought cover when fired upon. Probably the shots were fired at the Mexicans, who were concealed in brush, firing in retaliation indirectly to efforts taken here yesterday to stop an alleged era of cattle stealing by Mexicans.

Antonio Cardenas, municipal president of Nogales, has been called on by Col. Earl Canham, commanding army forces here, to explain the alleged action of some Mexican guerrillas, who, American cattlemen have declared, are involved in thefts of American cattle in Mexico. Cardenas promised to aid in running down the thieves.

MEN AND SUPPLIES LEAVE TO ENFORCE GEN. QUIROGA

A detachment of 200 men out of the 7th Mexican Infantry left Juarez shortly after noon Friday for Villa Ahumada to reinforce Gen. Quiroga, who is advancing from the south to relieve federal forces operating near Juarez.

No accurate estimate regarding the strength of Gen. Quiroga's forces were available Friday. Taking the federal official report as accurate, Quiroga advanced north with a force of approximately 300 men. The detachment from the 7th Infantry will increase his force to about 500 and, with the addition of a few other units believed to have joined the federal commander during the past 24 hours, it is possible that Quiroga is advancing northward with approximately 1,000 men.

OBREGON MAKES AMERICAN OFFER OF INTEREST

Seeks Presidency on Policy That Would Respect Rights of Foreigners.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 27.—(By the Associated Press.)—Obregon for the presidency of Mexico at the election in 1920 was made public today.

Six points make up the policy he has formed in regard to international affairs, as follows:

"The inviolability of Mexican sovereignty; complete recognition of all peoples; complete recognition of all facilities to capital that desirous to invest in Mexico for development of its natural riches; extension, in the most ample manner, to foreigners resident in Mexico of all the guarantees and prerogatives Mexican law concedes them; a frank tendency to reinforce and widen Mexican relations."

Eastern Field as Liberal. In a manifesto published in "El Mundo" newspaper, Obregon declared he enters the field as a liberal, explaining that although there are many small political parties in Mexico, there are but two political parties—Liberals and Conservatives.

"I present myself, then, in the political arena to say to the nation through this manifesto:

"I am a candidate for the presidency of the republic in the electoral campaign."
